It aims to offer superior returns to money market investments with limited capital volatility whilst striving for capital preservation over any two-year period. The optimism that greeted our local market in the latter part of 2023 has not extended into the current year. The FTSE/JSE Capped SWIX declined by 2.3% in the first quarter. The weak performance of our market, particularly when measured in US dollars, is in stark contrast to other global equity indices which have continued to post fresh all-time highs on the back of expected looser monetary policy and a continuing rally in AI-related stocks. A lacklustre commodity price environment, low economic growth and market participants keeping an eye on the upcoming national elections are all contributing to generally poor sentiment towards South African equities.

In comparison, global bonds have struggled to gain traction with investors becoming increasingly cautious on the quantum of interest rate cuts anticipated over the next year. US growth prospects remain strong and global inflation remains higher than targeted levels, particularly in the more labour-intensive services economy. The FTSE World Government Bond Index returned -2.4%, while the local FTSE/JSE All Bond Index posted a 4.1% decline in US dollars (-1.8% in rands) over the quarter.

Against this challenging backdrop for risk assets, the Portfolio's return for the first quarter was 1.1%, behind the benchmark¹ return of 2.5%. Fixed income and equities both contributed to performance.

At the end of this quarter, the Portfolio's allocation to cash and bonds is 71.2% of assets, with the split across instruments made with the objective of generating an acceptable overall real return (i.e. after adjusting for inflation), under a variety of possible scenarios. This comprises low-risk money market instruments yielding 9%, higher nominal South African government bonds at more than 12% and inflation linkers at 4.5% to 6.0% real rates. In sum, this combination should provide a decent return without taking on excessive credit and interest rate risk, which is attractive relative to local inflation at 5.6%.

A net equity weight of 18.9% reflects a more cautious stance when viewed against the 40% maximum allowable allocation. We are wary of parts of the market that appear expensive and what that may entail for absolute equity returns if stark valuation discrepancies begin to unwind. We seek to exploit this potential opportunity with our allocation to hedged equities, which should provide a return profile more akin to cash plus the alpha generated via our bottom-up stockpicking process.

It is worth reiterating the Portfolio's dual objective of providing long-term returns ahead of cash together with offering a high degree of capital stability. Current high cash rates do present a steep performance hurdle. It is important that the appropriate balance is struck between the risk and return required in meeting and surpassing this hurdle, especially in an environment of uncertainty both locally and offshore.

This quarter, the Portfolio added to positions in gold miners, including AngloGold Ashanti and DRDGOLD. We trimmed the Portfolio's exposure to Nedbank and Standard Bank.
